. Reading :

Prejudice is a negative feeling against a person because of his or her race, religion or background. For example, if a factory owner does not like Thais or Filipinos in general, this person is prejudiced. If this factory owner feels prejudiced, this is not such a huge problem; the problem arises when the factory owner refuses to hire someone because of that prejudice. If an employer gives a job to a man instead of a woman just because he is a man, despite the fact that both are equally qualified, this is called discrimination. The word “discrimination” really means the observation of differences.

41. What is the main idea of this paragraph?
